CROSBY S. NOYESEditor THE EVENING STAR has a regular and permanent circulation in Washington three times larger than that of any other paper in the city. As a local NEWS paper and Ad-vertising Medium it has no competitor.

It would be a misfortune which the people o the whole country would feel as much as the residents of Washington if in providing plans for the extension of the capital city beyond its present boundaries, Congress adopted a policy less liberal than that which controlled the founders of the city. In recent debates in Congress utterances have been made indicating either an ignorance of the history of the capita city or a disposition to ignore the just obliga-tions of the federal government respecting the by the speakers in question that Washington is in the position of a city that, already large and growing and established in prosperity, had invited the national government to make its home within its gates. Such a community might well afford to offer as an inducement complete exemption of the national government from taxation. The development of the capital city would be dependent entirely upon local interests. Such, however, is not the case with Washington. The framers of the government wisely chose to found a city that would be the nation's own, that could be planned on a suitable scale, and developed by Congress, as the needs of the city demanded, under the authority of that exclusive legislative control provided for in the Constitution. When Congress approved a plan laying out a city of the grandest proportions, with broad streets, avenues and reservations, taking up 57 per cent of the whole area, it was not intended or believed that the few people then living on the site which had become, in name at least, the cost of working out the magnificent plan. There was an implied contract, then, requiring the national government to bear a large share at any rate, of the great cost involved in building upon such a pretentious foundation. In the years following the establishment of the city the government was too poor to undertake to The prices range from 75c. to $1.98 per yard. discharge its obligations to the city, and it was not until 1878 that it tardily acknowledged the Prices from 50c. to $1.25 per yard. just claim against it by assuming to bear from that time half the expenses of the District government. Contrary to the principle then recognized, the recent conference agreement on the wholesale cost, thus saving you from 15 to 25 per the street extension bill requires the cost of the cent. work of extending the city to be charged wholly upon the people of the District. Mr. Blount's proposition went even further, and if agreed to would repudiate all obligation that might be supposed to rest upon the government to share the expense of future improvements made upon the streets, avenues or reservations of the new Washington beyond the boundaries of the present city. One who has the welfare of the capital at heart, and this is a matter that appeals not to residents of Washington alone, but to the whole country, cannot fail to offer an earnest protest against this proposition to have the government now abandon entirely the work of developing the capital to the people of the city, whose resources would not be adequate to the task of continuing the development of the city on the national scale, established when it was believed the plan then made would be carried out at national expense. The beauty resulting from the original plan of the city would be marred. and the millions already expended in develop- 69c. Gowns For 50c. ing that plan would be in part wasted, if provision is not made now insuring the growth of the capital in harmony with it, or if the blunder is made of leaving the new portion of the city to be fashioned according to local needs and local resources. Yesterday's filibuster of the anti-silver democrats may not have any practical results. It will not if the purposes of the silver folks are carried out in full. The latter are determined bly without, amendment, and leave to President the responsibility of a veto. The democratic situation is peculiar. To pass the bill in the House and have it vetoed by a republican executive is to gain nothing of consequence in the silver states and lose material strength in such anti-silver states as New York and Connecticut. And yet the leaders are disposed to take the risk rather than lose some congressional districts in the west and south.

Doubtless Mr. Harrison, under the circumstances, would very cheerfully state his reasons

50c. CHEMISE FOR 39c. why he present free coinage bill should not become a law even without more than a casual allusion to the alleged defects of the measure from a free silver standpoint.

The gains of the first were not maintained by the British liberals on the second day of the parliamentary elections. There was an offset of gains of seven to seven out of sixty-five seate at which there were pollings in boroughs and di-visions. This makes it harder for the liberals to recover control of the government. It is now evident that they will not win a sweeping victory, and it is only hoped that they may secure a working majority with their alles in the Irish party. The deep distrust of the Catholic Irish in the breasts of the English and Scotch Protestants is aided by the ultra labor movement in a few places. The radicals cast eleven thou sand votes yesterday, which if cast as usual for the liberals would have given them a majority of the popular vote on that day.

The formation of the ice trust in Washington indicates a condition of affairs that had been hitherto unsuspected. The fact that the men connected with the ice wagons were never reduced to the necessity of selling their horses and delivering their wares from a push-cart, and that they never showed signs of having eaten fewer than the usual number of meals per day, has kept the attention of philanthropists from being turned to them. The rebuke for this neglect is prompt and complete. Instead of being allowed to contribute gracefully to a general charity fund the public is held up, as it were, with an utter lack of ceremony that is, to say the least, undignified.

The people of Philadelphia do not intend to let the trolley wire question flag in interest until all the companies are compelled to do away with the unsightly poles and the dangerous overhead wires. Two more suits were argued in the common pleas court of that city on Saturday, the complainants being property holders of West Philadelphia. The object is to get all the trolley bills in equity decided about the same time, and the points at variance in the different suits passed upon by the court, so that if it is found necessary to appeal the cases to the supreme court, all the bills in equity can be considered. The argument used by counsel for the companies was practically the same as that employed in the cases recently decided against them, and those interested have no doubt that a similar decision will be rendered in these

The Chantilly Nets, ranging in prices from $1 to $4 yard, include some rare bargains. Several pieces valued at $1.35 are in the $1 lot and some at $1.25 and $1.35 were imported to sell at $1.75 a yard.

HOSE AT REDUCED PRICES. The Palais Royal's stock of Fast Black Hose is kept usually sold at 25 and 30 cents, complete the year around. We need hardly write to our patrons that the best values are always offered. 10 per cent discount is tomorrow's inducement to those buying six pairs. Among the extra values we point to the Ladies' Fast Black Stockings. Reduced to 25c. from 35 cents, and only because we are temporarily short of the regular 25c. Hose. The extra size Cotton Hose at 45c., the Lisle at 75c. and the Opera Length Cotton Hose at 68c. and Lisle at 75c. are also extra values. And so are the Tights at $1.68 and the Children's Hose 403, 405, 407 7 TH St. N.W. at 25c. See those for boys, with dou ble knees, in sizes 7 to 10.

We mention only the Fancy Hose that you will recognize in an advertisement as genuine reductions.
